

How to Read the Bible?

Catholic Use & Interpretation of the Sacred Scriptures presented by Fr. Felix Just, S.J., Ph.D.

Director of Biblical Education, Loyola Institute for Spirituality, Orange, CA

Pope Benedict XVI's monthly prayer intentions for September 2009 focus on the Bible and on our knowledge of God's Word: "That the Word of God may be better known, accepted, and lived as the source of freedom and joy."

As Catholic Christians, we need help in understanding and interpreting the Bible properly, but fortunately our Church provides us with helpful guidelines. For example, you might ask: Should we take the Bible literally? The answer may surprise you: YES, we need to read it both "literally" (but not literalistically) and "spiritually" (prayerfully, liturgically).

This evening presentation, free and open to anyone, will introduce you to the key principles of Catholic interpretation of the Bible, and how to use and understand the Scriptures more deeply and fully. Whether you have read the Bible often, or hardly ever, you will certainly benefit from this presentation. So come eager to learn, and don't forget to bring your Bible!

When: Wednesday, September 30, 2009; 7:30 – 9:00 p.m.

Where: Holy Family Cathedral, Orange, CA

About Fr. Felix Just, S.J.:

A member of the California Province of the Society of Jesus (the Jesuits), Fr. Felix is the Director of Biblical Education at the Loyola Institute for Spirituality in Orange, CA, the Academic Coordinator of lay and deacon formation programs in the Diocese of Los Vegas, and a gifted presenter of many retreats and parish missions. Fr. Felix earned a Ph.D. in New Testament Studies from Yale University and has taught at several Jesuit universities. He gives many public lectures on a wide variety of biblical and liturgical topics, and maintains a large internationally acclaimed website of "Catholic Resources" – <http://catholic-resources.org>.

